Climate change and development

1. Welcomes the UN's SDG Stimulus Plan, which aims to tackle the high cost of debt and rising risks of debt distress; calls for EU support to its implementation, notably regarding the creation of a multilateral debt workout mechanism, under UN auspices, to address both the impact of the climate crisis and the financing requirements of the Agenda 2030;
2. Calls on the EU and its Member States to deliver on the already existing commitments towards developing countries on the provision of climate finance and maintain a high level of ambition in relation to climate action support to developing countries in the lead up to, during, and after COP 28; calls on European institutions to implement an integrated approach of the SDGs, which provide a universal compass for people's prosperity and to protect the planet; stresses that developing countries' general confidence in the EU as a reliable and trustworthy partner depends on the extent to which the Union delivers on its promises; notes that fruitful cooperation between the EU and developing countries in the fight against climate change can strengthen the attractiveness of the Union as a partner, which is of crucial importance in an increasingly competitive geopolitical context;
3. Emphasises that climate diplomacy shall go hand-in-hand with the full implementation of the principle of policy coherence for development (PCD), as enshrined in Article 208 of the TFEU, meaning that the EU has to ensure consistency between its development, trade, agriculture, fishery, energy and climate policies;
