

1 " The EPP's path forward: a Europe of opportunity and strength"

Amended Version adopted by the resolution committee of 9 April 2025

2 I. EPP in the lead

3 The EPP is leading Europe. We are the largest group in the European Parliament; we lead the 4 European Commission with President von der Leyen and fourteen commissioners; and we have 5 twelve leaders at the Council table, with further expansion on the way. People vote for a centre-
6 right, pro-European, forward-thinking and pragmatic Europe. They vote for the EPP. This 7 powerful position comes with great responsibilities.

8 Our success comes from listening to citizens, building a programme they trust and fighting for a 9 lead candidate who embodies that vision. As a result, our Bucharest Manifesto now shapes the 10 Commission's work programme. From boosting economic competitiveness to strengthening 11 security to protect freedom and democracy and to defend our values, we are turning promises 12 into action: appointing the first-ever commissioner for defence, promoting technological 13 neutrality, making Europe competitive, and fighting illegal migration with a new Return
14 Regulation and a Mediterranean Pact. We are not just the party of bold ideas; we get things done.

15 Our success comes also from a lively democracy within our party. Our EPP congresses make 16 the key decisions, as the Bucharest Manifesto shows, and reflect the dedication of our members
17 at every level. EPP summits ensure leader-level coordination before European Council
18 meetings, aligning strategy and maintaining unity ahead of crucial decisions. Our EPP
19 ministerial meetings and our parliamentary groups coordinate and shape the EU legislative 20 process. Our political assemblies set important initiatives and keep the party dynamic, while 21 leaders' retreats shape our long-term vision and set the agenda, reinforcing the EPP's role as 22 the party of leadership and direction. We show that we are a family, and that the EPP's party 23 democracy is alive and strong.

24 II. Our compass

25 To navigate the challenging times we live in, we need a strong political compass. As the EPP, we 26 are rooted in the Christian and democratic values that have shaped Europe for generations. We 27 stand for unity, responsibility, respect for each individual and human dignity, believing that true
28 leadership builds a better future for all, not just for some. Humanism, personalism and Christian 29 social teaching protect each person's dignity in an era of technological disruption and growing
30 societal divisions. We stick to families and communities against rising isolation. Subsidiarity
31 drives our political action because every great battle is won from the ground up, not from the top 32 down.

33 While populists misuse Christian symbols to sow division, we live our Christian values. While 34 technocrats dictate from the top, we keep people at the centre, listening to their concerns and 35 prioritising their needs. While others focus on what they liked in the past or dislike in the present,
36 we are committed to shaping the future. We reject the politics of division and blame. We believe 37 that the key to addressing Europe's most pressing challenges lies not in describing problems,
38 but in delivering real solutions. That is why we remain committed to practical, common-sense
39 approaches, not ideological rhetoric. We also present credible leaders people can trust. In a 40 world in turmoil, trust is the most valuable currency in our societies.

41 III. We are driving Europe's future

42 The future of Europe does not lie in one ideological or rhetoric solution that fits all and ends up 43 being useless. It lies in bringing together diverse priorities: balancing prosperity with fairness, 44 security with openness, and climate protection with competitiveness. The EPP is the bridge 45 builder.

46 We are committed to making Europe safe from both internal and external threats. In a time of 47 war on European soil and rising authoritarian powers, security is the foundation of our 48 European way of life. We will strengthen Europe's defence capabilities, both within NATO and 49 through a European Defence Union, as far as the national security and defence policies of 50 Member States allow.

51 We will ensure the resources and strategic vision to respond to emerging threats. This entails 52 enhancing Member States' defence capabilities, creating a single defence market and 53 launching projects like a joint missile- and drone-defence shield, satellite reconnaissance, a
54 cyber-defence brigade and closer cooperation through initiatives like an EU rapid-deployment
55 force. A true European Defence Union is the historic task of our generation. To further strengthen 56 our security and our global role, Europe must also speak with one voice on foreign policy.
57 Security also means tackling crime and illegal migration. We will strengthen border security, 58 enhance cooperation among law enforcement agencies, fight cross-border crime and ensure 59 migration is managed in a way that prioritises safety and the rule of law while also protecting the 60 rights and dignity of those seeking refuge. We will continue to promote policies which will tackle
61 demographic challenges across Europe.

62 The promise of Europe is one of prosperity and opportunity, and we are committed to upholding 63 it. To secure its future, Europe must regain its economic strength and remain a global leader. As 64 the largest single market in the world, the EU will protect its producers, consumers,
65 entrepreneurs, farmers and workers from unfair competition. We will create an environment
66 where SMEs can thrive, reducing red tape in order to foster growth, and a competitive industrial 67 policy to support innovation in key sectors like AI, biotech and traditional industries. For 68 example, we envision creating a European equivalent of CERN for AI, to lead the global AI
69 revolution. At the same time, we will ensure climate protection by balancing innovation and 70 industry, establishing a model that leads the way for the rest of the world. We also want to 71 increase trade with partners who share our commitment to a rules-based world order.

72 As Christian democrats, we believe Europe thrives as a social market economy, balancing free
73 markets with social responsibility. Our social market economy ensures inclusive growth, 74 promotes sustainable development and guarantees social fairness. We will also work to 75 reinforce health and social security systems, ensuring all Europeans have access to quality 76 healthcare and protection. For Europe to succeed, every region, village and community must 77 thrive. As the EPP, we take pride in being the party with the largest number of mayors, governors
78 and local administrators. We are committed to bridging the gap between urban and rural areas 79 through innovation – turning brain drain into brain gain, and building a Europe where no one is 80 forced to leave their home in search of opportunity. We stand for freedom of movement, but also 81 for the freedom to build a future at home.

82 When you walk through a European city – with its centuries-old heritage, lively cafés and rich
83 traditions – you immediately sense a unique way of life shaped by centuries of culture, values
84 and identity. Our European way of life is more than just a reflection of our past; it guides the 85 decisions we make and the priorities we set for the future. Freedom, democracy, rule of law, 86 diversity with equal opportunities for all, not having a death penalty, the social market economy, 87 ecological responsibility – all this the European way of life. These basic principles give us the 88 confidence that Europe can withstand turmoil, continue to progress and grow ever more united.
89 We not only live by these values; we offer them as a model for others to follow.

90 At our last EPP congress in Bucharest in March 2024, before the European elections, we 91 promised to make Europe a safe and secure place for its people – a home that can weather both 92 good and bad times, offering freedom and opportunity for all. The people of Europe trusted us 93 and gave us a mandate to build a Europe that protects our planet, competes globally, keeps its 94 citizens safe and always puts people first. In Valencia, we are proud to say we are keeping that 95 promise and are ready to lead Europe in the years to come.
