emphasises the lack of public and private investment in childcare and other formal care services, and stresses that longstanding unequal attitudes towards care activities at large push the economic and social cost of caregiving predominantly to women; whereas unpaid care responsibilities keep around 7,7 million women in the EU from participating in the labour market and there is a large untapped potential in balancing the care sector for our economies as highlighted e.g. in estimates by EIGE that foresee an employment rate of 80% by 2050 if there are substantial gender equality improvements<sup>1a</sup>; whereas according to Eurofound's European Quality of Life Survey, 42% of non-working carers are in the lowest income quartile (compared to 24% of non-carers) and 59% of non-working carers have difficulty making ends meet (compared to 46% of non-carers) and 80% of care is provided by informal carers, predominantly women aged 45-75, which contributes to gender inequalities in terms of employment and income; whereas approximately one in four paid care workers is a migrant, many of whom face exploitation due to a lack of adequate regularisation pathway which is especially relevant considering that about 9 out of 10 paid care workers are women;

Calls on the Commission to ensure that Member States take the gender dimension into account when reforming pension systems and adapting the retirement age, and to consider the differences between the work patterns of women and men, including all unpaid employment practices, taking into account the higher risk of intersectional discrimination faced by women in the labour market; calls on the Commission and Member States to put forward a comprehensive plan to address the gender pension gap, including by ensuring adequate childcare support and, mitigating the so called “motherhood penalty” as well as increasing financial literacy for women and improving financial advice in particular to women to diminish the gender investment gap;

Paragraph 9 f (new)

Motion for a resolution

Amendment

9 f. Urges the Commission to develop guidelines for Member States, the private sector and civil society to help establish gender equality targets and strategies including equal leadership opportunities in economy, including for women entrepreneurs and to remove barriers for women to start and own businesses in order to reduce the gender gap in entrepreneurship; calls on the Commission to support Member States in these efforts, and to promote gender equality in access to financing, and address the persistent gender gap in business leadership and innovation;

Paragraph 9 g (new)

Motion for a resolution

Amendment

9 g. Reiterates that the gender gap in digital and AI inevitably results in biased algorithms; Calls therefore on the Commission to promote gender equality in companies working on AI- and ICT-related activities, including through financing women-led projects in the digital sector and promoting a minimum number of women researchers participating in AI- and ICT-related research funding calls; Calls on the Commission to put forward targeted initiatives to support women in STEM and motivate girls towards STEM, ICT and AI-related careers, including by defining a target for the participation of women researchers in STEM and AI projects, in order to close the overall skills and gender gap in this sector; Emphasises the need to reflect the interests of women and vulnerable groups in the digital transition; Calls on the Commission and Eurostat to enhance monitoring of gender composition within STEM professions, such as the health workforce;

Paragraph 9 h (new)

Motion for a resolution

Amendment

9 h. Stresses that women empowerment as citizens and economic actors is both an ethical and economic imperative, and that achieving an effective and equitable “Union of Skills” requires dedicated efforts to eliminate the barriers currently limiting labour market participation, particularly for women; urges the Commission to encourage women’s economic activity and ensure equality on all levels throughout professional life for everyone in the EU, as it is a benefit for European society, economy and the world of work, given that gender equality is a precondition for European success,

Motion for a resolution

Paragraph 17

Motion for a resolution

17. Urges the Commission to develop a comprehensive tool to monitor and counter democratic backsliding and backsliding in women's rights, which are intrinsically linked, and to ensure that gender equality remains a priority across the EU;

Amendment

17. Urges the Commission to ensure a comprehensive monitoring and accountability mechanism to swiftly address the continuing democratic backsliding and backsliding in women's rights and gender equality, including SRHR and the rights of LGBTIQ+ persons, which are intrinsically linked. Calls on the Commission to build on the existing mechanisms to assess compliance with the rule of law or fundamental rights and to progressively develop a dedicated mechanism encompassing all Union values under Article 2 TEU, including democracy, rule of law and fundamental and human rights, including women's rights, operating under an inter-institutional agreement between the Commission, the European Parliament, and the Council, ensuring a unified approach to annual monitoring across all Member States and a clear link to concrete Union measures for cases when deficiencies remain unaddressed; notes all measures to counter backsliding should reflect an intersectional perspective; urges the Commission to conduct in-depth research on anti-gender movements to gain deeper insights into their current operations and financing strategies; stresses that understanding these dynamics are crucial for safeguarding a modern, inclusive, and tolerant Europe;

Paragraph 17 d (new)

Motion for a resolution

Amendment

17 d. Recalls the crucial and indispensable role that civil society organisations (CSOs) play, in a system of checks and balances in a healthy democracy, especially women's rights organisations (WROs) and women human rights defenders (WHRDs) including those working in the humanitarian sector, in defending and advancing gender equality, human rights, and fundamental freedoms, especially during times of political, social, and institutional backlash; calls on the Commission to recognise, protect, ensure the safety of, and support civil society organisations, women's human rights organisations and defenders, feminist, LGBTIQ+ and sexual and reproductive rights movements which are essential in advocating for inclusive policy reforms, challenging discriminatory practices, and mobilising communities in the defence of fundamental rights in the EU and globally; notes that they are increasingly targeted by far right and anti-right actors; calls on the Commission to include as a horizontal pillar in EU policies and in the post 2025 Gender Equality Strategy actions and recommendations on the safeguarding and support of civil society organisations working on women's rights, gender equality and anti-discrimination;

Paragraph 17 e (new)

Motion for a resolution

Amendment

17 e. Urges the Commission to ensure sustainable and accessible funding for women's rights organisations, including through the new MFF and to maintain and strengthen its commitment to supporting civil society, including financially through the Citizens, Equality, Rights and Values Programme (CERV), ensuring that it remains a robust tool for addressing emerging threats to rights and freedoms; calls in particular on the Commission to maintain CERV as a standalone Programme under direct management and increase substantially its funding in order to respond to the needs of underfunded CSOs and to the increasing threats and challenges to civic space and EU values; urges the Commission to maintain the Programs dedicated strand to gender equality and women's rights, including SRHR, as well as dedicated strands such as Daphne, which should remain an autonomous programme with a separate budget line in the new the MFF to combat gender-based violence and discrimination including against LGBTIQ people;
